MACKEREL AGAIN.

Gloucester Vessels Make Big Hauls Saturday.

Fish Struck in Abundance on Middle Bank.

To-day is a gala mackerel day. Since Saturday large numbers of the fish have been landed, and as predicted in the TIMES during the poor prospects of the last two weeks, it is evident that the season is not yet ended up, and lots more of the much sought for fish remain in the sea ready to be caught.

From Provincetown and Boston come a repetition of the same good news, the Gloucester vessels being at those port with good trips, nearly all of which were secured within a radius of 10 miles of Middle Bank Saturday afternoon and evening.

The fleet which had been lying in this port and at Provincetown during the bad weather of last week sailed on Friday and Saturday, and almost ran into the fish on the edge of Middle Bank. There were fish in abundance, as far as the eye could reach, and the hustling skippers and their crew made the best of their opportunities, with the result that big trips commence to come in yesterday morning at this port as well as Boston and Provincetown.

The banner haul at this port belongs to sch. Amos Cutter, Capt. Joseph Lyle, who has 231 bbls., the full capacity of his craft, which is not a large one. Over a hundred barrels more were in the seine, but as Capt. Lyle was unable to handle them, he turned them over to sch. Loring B. Haskell.

Sch. Grayling, Capt. Reuben Cameron, was loaded down with fish, even to her decks, which were secured Saturday evening. She hails for 190 barrels.

Sch. Geneva Mertis, Capt. Alex. McLeod, has 161 bbls., sch. Henry M. Stanley 50 bbls., sch. Hattie A. Heckman 80 bbls., sch. Kentucky 90 bbls. and sch. Grace C. Hadley 50 bbls. The last three will not land their fares now, evidently preferring to wait until there are less fish in, and thinking there are more fish to be secured off here.

The steamer Vigilant arrived in Provincetown Saturday evening, with 75 bbls., and brings the report on reliable authority, of the following vessels and their trips:

Sch. Helen Miller Gould, 208 bbls.; Agnes E. Downs, 55 bbls.; sch. Dauntless, 65 bbls.; sch. Minerva, 25 bbls.; sch. Indiana, 20 bbls.; sch. Vesta, 40 bbls.; sch. Golden Rod, 100 bbls.; sch. Henrietta Frances, 10 bbls.; sch. Miranda, 40 bbls.; sch. Richard Wainwright, 60 bbls.; sch. George F. Edmunds, 175 bbls.; sch. Herald of the Morning, 40 bbls.; sch. Lizzie M. Center, 90 bbls.

The following fares are at Boston this morning: Sch. Bertha M. Miller, 8000 fresh mackerel and 70 bbls. salt mackerel; sch. Olga, 155 bbls. salt mackerel; sch. Sarah A., 3000 fresh mackerel; sch. Margaret Mather, 50 bbls. fresh mackerel; sch. W. B. Keene, 70 bbls. fresh mackerel; sch. Vera, 50 bbls. fresh mackerel; steamer Quartette, 1000 fresh mackerel; sch. Laughing Water, 3000 fresh mackerel; sch. Moses B. Linscott, 5000 fresh mackerel.

Sch. Olga of this port, Capt. Hickey, took about 250 barrels of fish, but while they were being dressed nearly half were washed from the deck by the high running sea.

Sch. Sarah E. was out during the gale, and while making Boston harbor had four barrels of mackerel swept from her deck.

The fresh mackerel sold for 8 cents each.

But while the seiners had good trips, they were not alone in their good fortune, the little netters which go out of here all coming in with good hauls, being fairly loaded down with big fat mackerel, which found a ready sale at the Fort among the dealers there, at prices ranging from seven and one-half to nine cents. This morning there are two trips aggregating 3700 fish, which sold to Dennett for eight and one-fourth cents apiece.

At Provincetown the netters also landed good trips Saturday, about 150 bbls. being landed.

No sales of the seiners have as yet been reported, and it is probable that the price will drag a little on account of the sudden rush of arrivals.

Thousands of Tons Yearly Shipped East from Bayous.

A petition presented in New Orleans to the police jury of Concordia Parish, for seining privileges brought to light the fact that thousands of tons of spoonbill catfish are caught in the waters of that parish every year, canned and chemically treated, shipped east and sold in the market as salmon. The petition made known this fact and further showed that the desire of the petitioner was to continue the practice of converting catfish into salmon on a grand scale. He wants to erect a large factory for this purpose.

This industry has been prospering for years in a quiet way, though the attention of the government was once called to it and an investigation was made. So perfect is the imitation that it can only be detected by the small pieces of blue skin that get into the cans through the carelessness of the packers.
